

THE FULL ITINERARY
OF EDWARD IV

John Ashdown-Hill

A simplified (monthly) version of the itinerary of Edward IV was published recently in my book The Private Life of Edward IV (Stroud, 2016). However, this present edition contains the full (daily) version, with details of all the dates and locations which I have been able to find. I should like to thank Geoffrey Wheeler, Mary Friend and A.D. White for help in updating place names which I previously found it hard to identify, and Dave Perry for his proof reading, and for his help in accessing TNA information.

Original medieval spellings of place names are sometime reproduced for information, italicised, in square brackets.

The majority of sources are records at The National Archives.

With the exception of Rymer's Foedera and other material available online, most other sources referred to more than once are noted using the following symbols:

Some sources - Rymer's Foedera in particular – sometimes suggest locations which seem not to fit with the information from other sources. Such questionable information is included in the list, but highlighted in grey thus.

References to Westminster when the king actually appears to have been in other parts of the country presumably refer to work carried out for him by his staff.

On the very rare occasions where no source is cited the location has been presumed, based on the surrounding evidence.

¹⁴ I previously thought that Edward IV was at Clare, Suffolk, on this date (see J Ashdown-Hill, Richard III's 'Beloved Cousyn', Stroud 2009, pp. 26 & 147, note 8). This was based on the evidence of Essex Record Office, The Red Paper Book of Colchester, fol. 123v. (or fol. C111v or 84v – the MS has three different enumeration systems) published edition: W. Gurney Benham, ed./ trans., The Red Paper Book of Colchester, Colchester 1902, p. 60. But the document in question, while citing a writ issued by the king earlier in the year, was apparently issued by Edward IV's mother, the dowager Duchess of York, not specifically by the king himself.

¹⁵ Filed in the wrong chronological sequence – probably because the year date is missing on the MS.

³¹ Claiming to cite the Privy Seals – but it seems to be an error. The real evidence refers to 11th and 13th July.

³² Error? Edward only seems to have reached Warwick Castle in August.

³³ П 5, p. 62 (claiming to cite Privy Seals) states the king was a prisoner at Middleham Castle, Yorks throughout August and September. But that appears to be incorrect.

30 Wed Leicester Castle - TNA, C 81/845

⁴⁷ ☉ 2, p. 57, claims he was departing on a tour of the kingdom.

⁴⁸ According to a prediction made on 12 April, Π 5, p. 181, claims that after Easter Edward IV was travelling to Leicester / Leicestershire.

⁴⁹ NB Although it is filed under year 14, the regnal year is missing from this document. Might it therefore have been wrongly filed? For example, Edward seems definitely to have been in Fotheringhay on 28 June in regnal years 9 and 16.
